Accounting For Non-Accountants (AFNA)

A Six-Week Course by IBA, University of Dhaka

Background

As part of its continuous commitment to enhance management efficiency in changing economic and business dynamics, the Institute of Business Administration (IBA), University of Dhaka is offering a certificate course on 'Accounting For Non-Accountants (AFNA)'. The course has been designed for all who have no or little accounting literacy but need to understand and appreciate how business transactions are recorded, summarized, and interpreted for business decision-making purposes.

Overview

No one in business will succeed if s/he is not financially literate; and no business will succeed without financially literate people. This is the ideal course for managers and others who don't have any accounting qualification or background but who nonetheless need to understand accounting practices, to interpret accounting information and to take decision using accounting information. In general, the course seeks to enable participants to explain and apply the basic principles, tools, and techniques of the accounting process. The course will broadly cover the basics of Financial Accounting, Cost Accounting and Management Accounting. Specifically, the course will equip the participants with an understanding on accounting system, financial statements, annual report, financial performance, cost calculation, budgeting process, variance analysis, transfer pricing and thereby enhancing managerial decision making skills.

Course Schedule

The course will be taught over six weeks (weekend evenings only). A total of 12 classes will be held and duration for each class will be 3 hours. Classes will be held at IBA premises on Friday and Saturday. The last date for submission of application is September 15, 2014.
